Boutique Med Spa Invigorates with Health-Focused Cumming City Center Flagship

CUMMING, Ga. – With a focus on helping everyone to look and feel their best, Good Chemistry Health & Med Spa co-founders Krystal Lokkesmoe and Benjamin House will bring their vision of wellness to the Cumming City Center.

The destination of choice for individuals who want to target the causes of aging rather than just the symptoms, Good Chemistry will do much more than simply focus on the outward signs of aging. Rather, the facility will offer a carefully selected menu of state-of-the-art, science-based treatments for cellular regeneration, or in other words, services that help the body work the way it used to.

“When you come into Good Chemistry, you will receive a tailored plan to address all of your wellness and anti-aging concerns,” said House. “Our minimalist, mid-century studio boasts five treatment rooms, including a dedicated lounge for hydration therapy, and treatments range from traditional medical aesthetic services like wrinkle relaxers, dermal fillers, microneedling, chemical peels, and HydraFacials, up to integrative services like intravenous vitamin infusions and peptide therapy.”

House said Good Chemistry will also feature a “curated roster of products” from clinical skincare brands like Skin Better Science and ZO Skin Health, as well as “premium, medical grade supplements,” all of which can only be provided by a medical doctor. “If there are products or services our community would like to see, we encourage the public to reach out to us on Instagram @getgoodchemistry,” House added.

Services will be provided at Good Chemistry by both appointment and walk-in, and memberships will be available for year-long product and service discounts, complimentary B-12 shots for weekly energy boosts, and VIP access to events and promotions.

“We are absolutely thrilled to bring Good Chemistry to the Cumming City Center,” said House. “Our team is so excited to serve this community. For Good Chemistry, it’s all about providing our clients with real solutions to bring back the vitality that the stress of everyday life strips away. We want you to look and feel like the best version of yourself and feel good about what you’re putting in and on your body.”
